Ike Opens Up On Democrats In California

Urges Republicans End Their 'Family Squabble'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—President Eisenhower lambasted Democrats Monday night as political radicals and called for an end to Republicans "family bickering" in the party drive to capture control of Congress.

The President flies north to San Francisco today for two more campaign addresses after making perhaps the hardest hitting speech of his political career to a cheering crowd of about 8,500 GOP workers in Los Angeles' Shrine Auditorium.

In a peppery, fighting mood for the first time on this coast-to-coast tour, Eisenhower sailed into the Democrats as a party "hopelessly split right down the middle." He touched off a round of laughter in saying they have political schizophrenia, or split personality.

Points To Record
"The opposition record," said Eisenhower, "is one of ever higher taxes — of dollars worth 50 cents — of sky high prices — of an economy harassed into producing fewer jobs, chronic unemployment, labor strife and fear of the future."

The President said the record of the administration on the other hand is one that justifies support for Republican candidates from coast to coast — in the fields of foreign policy, defense, agriculture, and the nation's economy, and others.

Eisenhower was interrupted by applause 35 times at the party rally where nearly every seat in the auditorium was filled. The biggest round came when he said that under this administration: "Ladies and gentlemen, things are good, and getting better every day."

Eisenhower came to California mainly to boost the candidacy of U.S. Sen. William F. Knowland in the race for the governorship, and the bid of GOP Gov. Goodwin J. Knight for Knowland's Senate seat — and to try to heal a party split.

The split is over Knowland moving into the gubernatorial contest after Knight had announced he intended to seek re-election, and Knowland's championship of a highly controversial "right to work" proposal which would bar the union shop in California.

Knights Opposes Measure
Knight, running for an office he didn't want, is against the proposal and has said he may not vote for Knowland. Organized labor also is fighting Knowland on the "right to work" proposal, and he currently faces the gloomy prospect of defeat by his Democratic opponent, State Atty. Gen. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown.

With Knowland and Knight side by side on the speakers' platform with him in an outward show of harmony, Eisenhower told his applauding audience: "Let's have no more family bickering — fancied or real. It just helps defeat what we want."

Knowland and Knight joined the prolonged applause.

GM Disputes Ended, Three Plants Open

70,000 Still Idle In Walkouts Based On Local Arguments

DETROIT (AP)—General Motors today announced three more settlements of local-level labor disputes, bringing to 203,226 the number of its United Auto Workers employees back on the job.

GM, still about 70,000 short of its normal UAW production force, rolled its assembly lines with 1959 model cars for the second day since a strike shut down its nationwide network of plants Oct. 2.

The new settlements involved 1,470 workers at a Fisher Body Plant in Norwood, Ohio; 2,100 at a Chevrolet Assembly Plant in Tarrytown, N.Y.; and 650 at a Brown-Lipe-Chapin Parts Plant at Elyria, Ohio.

GM and the UAW now have reached settlements in 87 bargaining units.

Chrysler Corp. was troubled with a strike that idled 1,000 at a parts plant in Detroit. The cause of the walkout was not learned immediately.

Ford Motor Co., first of the auto companies to come to terms with the UAW on a new three-year contract, reported production normal. So did American Motors, which reached a three-year pact similar to the Big Three's only last Friday.

GM's plague of local disputes followed the settlement on a new national agreement in the 12th hour of a companywide strike. The UAW authorized its locals to stay out until plant disputes were settled.

The UAW announced today that the national agreement of Oct. 2 with GM had been ratified by UAW employees in GM plants. The UAW said the majority was overwhelming. Deadline for ratification was Monday.

The North Korean told investigators for the U.N. Command that he had been on guard duty at the entrance to the Panmunjom joint security area where Communist and U.N. representatives meet on armistice matters.

Dixie Bloc Feuds With Party Head

Southern Democrats Irrked After Butler Bids Them Get Out

By The Associated Press
Southern Democrats were feuding today with their party's national chairman—just as President Eisenhower was saying the Democrats are a hopelessly split party offering only deadlocked government.

What aroused the ire of the Southerners was a statement Sunday by Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler. He told interviewers Southern Democrats ought either to accept a strong civil rights plank in the 1960 Democratic platform or leave the party.

Several Dixie Democrats said Butler should leave the party. One called him a radical and another said he was pitching for "Northern radical votes and special minority interests."

Butler Softens Stand
In Wheeling, W. Va., Butler appeared to soften his stand somewhat Monday night, saying, "We're certainly not going to read anybody out of the party."

"Inevitably there will be some people who will not go along with the party platform," he added. Butler said he did not think such a split would hurt the Democrats in the 1960 presidential campaign.

Eisenhower, in a hard-hitting speech for Republican candidates in California, said the Democrats have "political schizophrenia" — split personality.

Without referring to the Butler-Dixie row, Eisenhower said the Democrats are divided into widely separated wings — one in the South and "at the other extreme...the stronger wing, dominated by political radicals."

"In Congress," he said, "they crash headlong into each other on every important domestic issue... In short, our opposition can offer America only deadlocked government — government that wages war on itself."

Democratic chief Butler and Southern Democrats have been on the outs at various times over the past few years. His Sunday jab at the Dixie faction had some of the Southerners seething.

North Carolina Democratic Chairman Woodrow W. Jones said Butler "does not own the Democrats." (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Small Animal In Space Device Planned By A. F.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force has plans to place a "specially trained small animal" into orbit around the earth — but not until there's a good chance of bringing it back alive.

The animal would be in a space capsule equipped to radio back to earth information on the animal's performance and physiological condition.

The Russians got similar reports on the dog Laika, sent aloft in a Soviet Sputnik last year. No effort was made to return the dog to earth.

Brig. Gen. Donald D. Flickinger, Air Force director of life sciences, outlined that service's plans in the Air University Quarterly Review.

France Balks On Proposals For Test Ban

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—France's blunt warning that she will not feel bound by any U.S.-British-Soviet agreement to suspend nuclear weapon tests aroused fears today for the chances of the Geneva arms talks opening Oct. 31.

Diplomats wondered whether the Soviet Union — which was quick to blast the French position — might use it as an excuse to refuse agreement and continue her own tests.

French disarmament expert Jules Moch caused a stir in the U.N.'s 81-nation Political Committee Monday by serving notice that any agreement reached at Geneva would be "drawn up without the participation of France and not applying to her."

France's government has been pressing to develop its own atomic bomb so that France can join the nuclear-weapon club.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin said he interpreted Moch's statement to mean France "does not intend to contribute to the reduction of the atomic threat or take any concrete steps in the field of disarmament."

Pius' Doctor Facing Probe For Articles

ROME (AP)—The Rome Medical Assn. will conduct a formal inquiry to determine if the personal physician of Pope Pius XII violated his professional obligations by selling articles describing the pontiff's last illness and death agonies.

The inquiry on Prof. Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi, the Pope's personal physician for 19 years, will take about three weeks. A finding of guilty could result in a reprimand, suspension for a time or even ouster from the medical profession.

The association's governing council voted the inquiry Monday night at an urgent meeting to consider a storm of public demands that Galeazzi-Lisi be disciplined.

The Roman Catholic Church's College of Cardinals had earlier accepted Galeazzi-Lisi's resignation as Vatican Health Services director.

Galeazzi-Lisi has contended that his articles betrayed no professional secrets because his obligation of secrecy ended with his patient's death. He attributed the criticism to jealousy of doctors who were not called to treat the Pope before he died Oct. 9.

British Beauty, Frankie Linked By London Press

LONDON (AP)—Frank Sinatra spent the past two days going steady with beautiful American-born Lady Beatty, and London newspapers suggested today a wedding is coming up.

"Sinatra will wed Lady Beatty," proclaimed The Daily Mail. It said the 36-year-old beauty's friends indicated that "the only questions to be answered were when and where."

Lady Beatty was divorced from William O'Connor of California in 1949. Earl Beatty, son of the British naval hero of World War I, divorced her last June, charging adultery with a man identified only as George Henry Lane.

Sinatra is in town to attend a movie premier next week. He noted Swiss author and poet, died Monday at his Pres-sur-Enges vacation home.

Reds Break Cease Fire, Accuse U. S.

Chiang Opposition To Cutting Forces On Isles Stiffens

By SPENCER MOOSA
TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles and President Chiang Kai-shek opened their conference today against a backdrop of renewed Red cannonading of Quemoy.

After a 2½-hour meeting between Dulles and Chiang, a State Department spokesman said that "Mr. Dulles is not here to twist anybody's arm or apply any heat or pressure."

While the talks progressed, the Chinese Communists put their shore guns into action for the second day but on a much lighter scale. The Defense Ministry said up to noon only 362 shells had hit Quemoy, compared with more than 11,500 Monday.

Important Bearing Seen
But there was no doubt the abrupt Red decision to end the Communist-imposed cease-fire had an important bearing on the Dulles-Chiang discussions.

Joseph Greene, special assistant to Dulles, said Dulles' first conference with Chiang was "a stock-taking of the present situation." He said the political and military situation was being assessed along with Communist propaganda.

Greene took this tack on reports that the United States might bring pressure on Chiang to cut down the off-shore islands in the hope of obtaining a permanent cease-fire.

He said applying heat or pressure "would not be in tune with the relationship of mutual trust and confidence of the two countries as allies."

Vice President Chen Cheng, Chiang's right-hand man, declared that to cut the size of the garrisons or to pull out of the off-shore islands would "definitely lead to a large-scale war."

Chen told a rally in Taipei on Overseas Chinese Day he was not surprised that the Reds had broken the cease-fire because all Communist pledges are worthless. He said the United States fully understands the true nature of the Communists.

The Red action stiffened Nationalist opposition to any reduction of forces on the Quemoy islands. Dulles had indicated that Washington favored a reduction in hopes of a permanent Red cease-fire in return.

Shelling Reported Light
Dulles met with Chiang exactly 24 hours after the Communists broke their self-imposed cease-fire. It had lasted 15 days. After a heavy barrage Monday, shelling was reported light today.

The secretary of state arrived in midmorning in a military jet (tanker which flew the pilot route from England. He said his talks with Chiang "are not aimed at reaching any new agreements."

"We hope, through re-examination, to consolidate a relationship of mutual trust and confidence which is of immense value to all the free world," he said.

The secretary had been expected to press for a smaller garrison on Quemoy, equipped with more powerful weapons, a garrison which the Reds could not consider an invasion threat but which would be sufficient to protect the offshore islands from a Communist landing. But he said during a stop in Alaska:

"It is obvious that if the Chinese Communists resume their (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

However, the Rev. George Washington Rollins, 33, still faced a preliminary hearing on a charge of kidnapping the mountain girl. It was filed by her father, Earl Ogle Jr. after the Missionary Baptist preacher took her to Georgia in a vain attempt to get married.

"I thought I was in love with him but I definitely wouldn't do it again," the girl told her parents after her father brought her home from Atlanta. "I realize now I'm too young, and he is not the right man for me."

Frieda said neither she nor the preacher thought she was too young when they went away together. "I thought I could make him a good wife," she said.

Two British Ladies Enter Peers' House

LONDON (UPI)—Britain's centuries-old House of Lords welcomed ladies to its membership today for the first time in history.

Baroness Swanborough, formerly the Marchioness of Reading, and Baroness (formerly Barbara) Wootton, were the first two women in British history to be admitted formally into the upper house.

The other two new life peeresses, Baroness Elliot and Baroness Ravensdale, will be introduced Wednesday.

Gas Rate-making System Backed By Government

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government asked the Supreme Court today not to overturn present natural gas rate-making methods which it said protect consumers from price-gouging while permitting expanded service.

U. S. Solicitor General J. Lee Rankin said no alternative procedures could give equally satisfactory results.

The court set three hours Monday and today for arguments in the highly complex case which could mean refunds of many millions of dollars by pipeline companies to their customers.

Before starting the week's argument, the Justices Monday disposed of a batch of appeals including one from a lower court order that Negroes may use the facilities of the New Orleans city park. The high court affirmed the order permitting Negroes to use the park.

In other actions Monday the court:

—Granted a hearing to three Ohioans, Talmadge Raley, Joseph Stern and Emmett Calvin, convicted of contempt for refusing to answer questions six years ago in Cincinnati, Ohio, by the State Un-American Activities Commission.

—Agreed to decide whether a city health officer without a warrant may inspect a private dwelling over objections of the occupant. The case came from Baltimore, Md., where Aaron D. Frank denied entry to a health inspector who was called on to check on a report of rats in the neighborhood.

—Refused to review a court of claims decision denying $8,899,547 in excise tax refunds to the Ford Motor Co. as rebates for repairs and replacements under auto sales warranties.

U. S. Air Force To Expand Its Missile Center

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Air Force expects to spend a record total of $305,886,000 operating the missile test center during the fiscal year 1959.

The air force will have spent 515 million dollars on payrolls alone in Brevard County from 1950, when the Cape opened, to the end of fiscal year 1959, which began July 1.

Of the total for 1959, about $93,200,000 will be spent in sections of the United States other than Florida and another six million will be used outside the United States.

On the art of using money wisely

Suppose that from time to time you have a little money left over after you've paid the bills and made provision for emergencies.

Suppose you know there are millions of American families getting extra income from dividends on stock or interest on bonds. And that you would like that kind of second income for yourself.

You might start with these simple facts:

To buy stocks or bonds you must first find someone who wants to sell. This is where the New York Stock Exchange and Member Firms come in. The Exchange is the market place where the stocks and bonds of most of America's greatest corporations are bought and sold by people like you all over the country. To be listed initially there, a company must be able to meet many stringent requirements.

Strict rules

Each Member Firm, too, must meet and conform to many strict rules. And those who deal with investors must pass a rigorous examination of knowledge and reputation before becoming a Registered Representative.

Let's say you're ready to invest. Since not all security firms are Members, you first select a nearby Member Firm. (They're specially listed among stock brokers in your classified directory.) To a Partner or Registered Representative you might say, "I'm no plutocrat, but I'd like to look into stocks and bonds with the idea of getting a second income. Can you help me?"

Facts and advice

Of course he can. No one knows better than he the importance of good advice. For a company may not pay a dividend or make a profit. Stock and bond prices go down as well as up. The essential thing is to get facts—never depend on tips or rumors.

He'll share with you, without charge, his knowledge of securities. Member Firms spend millions of dollars, all told, in research to get useful information for investors. He'll help you buy or sell. And from time to time ask him to review your securities with you.

Ask for booklet

He'll be glad, too, to present you with a booklet, "DIVIDENDS OVER THE YEARS," that gives the records of more than 300 stocks on the New York Stock Exchange that have paid a cash dividend every year from 25 to 100 years. It also describes the Monthly Investment Plan, through which you can acquire stock for as little as $40 every three months up to $1000 a month.

Once you've decided what to buy, or sell, your Member Firm promptly notifies its representative on the trading floor of the Exchange and the transaction may be completed within minutes.

If you'd rather get a free copy of that excellent booklet by mail, just send the coupon now.

School System Of Soviets 'Patchwork Of Experimentation'

Editor's Note—Roy Essoyan, an American who speaks Russian fluently, spent three years in the Soviet Union as a correspondent of the Associated Press. He was expelled last month on a charge that he had evaded censorship.

By ROY ESSOYAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

Russians think the Soviet system of education isn't what it's cracked up to be, especially by the United States.

Probably nobody was more surprised than the Russians at the par-panic of American reaction to Sputnik.

After Sputnik went into orbit, American educators went into a talspin of agonizing reappraisal. The Russians lost no time in gleefully picking up the American refrain, and crowing to the world that communism had shown capitalism how to educate youth.

But Nikita Khrushchev himself pricked that illusion recently when he ordered the system of Soviet education changed. He admitted it was inefficient, discriminatory and too heavy.

It produced scientists fine, he said in effect, but it also produced an inordinate number of misfits. Khrushchev's way of solving the problem hasn't made the Russians any happier but they haven't been happy with their educational system since the Revolution threw theory out the classroom window.

The Soviet system has been a patchwork of experimentation. After the Revolution everything that snatched of the old bourgeois ways was scrapped. This included religion, Latin and languages, science, physics, math and even discipline.

"Proletarianism" and Marxist "polytechnicism" took over. They condemned all theory divorced from practice.

Vocational training followed, and produced a generation of illiterate mechanics.

The light finally dawned in the early 30s and the pendulum swung back. Compulsory curricula were restored with physics, math, competitive exams, backbreaking homework and discipline.

After World War II this load was found too heavy. The Kremlin has been gradually reducing it. But, as Khrushchev complained, the system now produces too many pampered intellectuals, boys and girls who have "lost their respect for manual labor."

"Bourgeois-minded" parents use influence to keep children out of the factory and collective farm.

The system, and Khrushchev's own short-lived campaign of destabilization and liberalization, also gave birth to widespread student discontent.

So now Soviet universities and industries, breeding grounds of student unrest, will be turned in effect into night schools and correspondence schools. Most Soviet children will leave the classroom to learn "respect for manual labor" from the seventh grade up.

No wonder Soviet parents are unhappy.

The Soviet school system has been under attack from parents and in Teacher's Gazette. This newspaper of the Ministry of Education has carried complaints for years against the shortage of schools, classrooms and textbooks. Some textbooks haven't been brought up to date in 30 years. Others, particularly histories, are rewritten all the time.

The paper has also attacked absenteeism and juvenile delinquency, blaming parents and teachers alike. Teachers have often been accused of ignorance, poor training and slipshod habits. According to some complaints many teachers don't know their subjects and some of the language teachers don't even know Russian well, let alone the languages they teach.

Hints of the drastic new change in the Soviet education system started appearing in the Soviet press more than a year ago. I met no Russian parent who was pleased with the news.

The reason is not hard to find. Forty-one years have passed since the Revolution. The old revolutionaries are dying off. Except for a thin hard core, the revolutionary fervor is gone.

The Russian parent of today has developed a middle-class desire for security, for comforts and a better life for his children.

Many are unscrupulous about making sure their children don't have to go through the discomforts they did. And apparently those with money, influence or party connections have been surprisingly successful, despite the parents, and the competition of parents is often far more decisive."

Kremlin's repeated protestations that discrimination does not exist. The rewards of influence over ability are so well recognized that the Russians have a saying that covers the situation. Even Khrushchev couldn't resist mentioning it in announcing the latest change in Soviet education.

Referring to the stiff competitive exams which are supposed to determine who deserves a higher education, he quoted the saying: "After the competition of examinations comes the competition of

NEW YORK (UPI)—November could be a difficult one for the stock market, according to one of the experts.

S. B. Lurie, analyst for Josephthal & Co., finds the recent improvement in bonds strongly hinting that one of the "legs" which has been supporting the stock market stool is wobbling.

"If the Federal Reserve Board plays further trick or treat with credit policy, November could be a difficult month."

"The steam probably will escape from the stock market boiler within the next thirty days."

Yet there are many of the unrestrained optimists citing reasons why they think the market should continue to rise, he notes. These "reasons" include better-than-expected business and earnings recovery; a pronounced change in the market's supply-demand equation; and the growing popularization of the common stock idea.

Again these, he adds, the unconstructed pessimists can make headlines with observations that speculative psychology is better than the immediate fundamentals, probability that we've entered the second and slower phase of recovery hinting that the intermediate risks may outweigh the promises, and there is more inflation in the stock price level than there is in commodity prices—or credit trends.

Lurie had been expecting a rise all along. He was surprised the figure had not been set at 100 per cent instead of the 90 per cent which the Federal Reserve Board set as of Thursday morning.

Lurie finds many stocks still are cheap in a dear market.

He believes the key to practical market policy total lies somewhere between the extremes of the optimists and pessimists listed above.

"The realistic view," he says, "calls for concentration on the collectors' items—those stocks which have above average promise, but less than average risk."

OUR COUNTRY

The union of hearts, the union of hands and the flag of our Union forever.—Morris.

New Found Peace

FOR THE FIRST time in more than five months, the prospect of genuine internal calm exists in Lebanon. If the situation holds, it will amount to the most hopeful improvement in the Middle Eastern picture in a long time. Originally it was felt that the departure of the controversial former President Chamoun from office in mid-September would signal the end of Lebanon's turmoil. It did not. The new president, Fuad Chehab, touched off fresh outbreaks by naming Rashid Karami, one of the rebel leaders, as premier. Thereafter a cabinet heavily weighed with Moslems was established.

OUTRAGED, the Christian supporters of Chamoun took to the barricades, fostered political strikes and otherwise acted to continue the chaos and paralysis which had plagued the country through the troubled summer. Since Lebanon is sharply divided in population between Christians and Moslems, the situation suggested that the strife might drag on and on without a solution satisfactory to either element. Just when a note of hopelessness seemed to be creeping in, however, there was a sudden furry among Lebanon's leaders. First it was reported Karami had resigned, but this proved false. What has happened is that he has reorganized his cabinet to produce an even division of Christians and Moslems, all of them moderates. After so much bitterness and violence, it would be foolhardy to predict that this move will surely bring lasting internal peace. Yet the early signs are good.

ALL FACTIONS appear to have approved the cabinet shifts. The barricades were coming down. Beirut, the capital, was almost normal as shops that have been closed all or most of the time since May opened for business. There were no reports of fighting. If good sense can indeed prevail at last in Lebanon, a tiny country where religion so clearly divided the people, men may find renewed hope for solution of the Middle East's larger problem embracing the Arabs and Jews and the relation of the whole region to West and East. All that would seem to be needed now is for President Nasseef of the United Arab Republic to keep his hands off to allow time for this new-found peace to become a habit among the strife-weary Lebanese.

Leaves For Burning

OUR FRIEND Smathers, who moved to a spanking new suburban development a couple of years ago, astonished his neighbors the other day by raking great heaps of leaves from his lawn and piling them in the street. His neighbors, one might assume, are easily astonished. Not so. Their surprise was occasioned by the fact that the only trees for blocks around are saplings that won't have much of a leaf crop for years to come. Smathers enjoys raking leaves. Last year, having moved from a neighborhood that provided this autumn sport in abundance, he missed it. So this fall he got one of the village trucks, hauling leaves from an older area, to dump them in his drive. He hired a couple of lads to spread them over his lawn. Then he sallied forth and had a long, pleasant afternoon of raking and piling and burning. Some of the neighbors thought Smathers had gone a bit queer; one suggested that he might better have spent his money on a new trash burner. Yet they, like the rest of the neighborhood, were attracted like moths to his leaf fire at dusk. The truth is, there are a few people around who would rather spend money on what they want than on what someone else wants them to want. More power to Smathers!

THAT'S WHAT everybody's been telling their doc—there ought to be a pill that can keep you from catching a cold. And finally, a British health official thinks he has one. It's the antibiotics again. You get that scratchy feeling in the throat or the sniffles, you let the pills dissolve in your mouth and—zip—you're healthy again. For a while we'll have to take a gain of salt with this news instead of the pill until further tests check it out. But it's a cheerful outlook anyway.

Issues With Voter Appeal Seem Lacking

CHICAGO — Reports of the Congressional elections are starting to take on a broken phonograph-record aspect. It is disconcerting to observers who have still to find any exceptionally remarkable personalities among the Democrats whose political prospects appear so rosy.

Nor do issues leap to the eye on a reportorial pilgrimage. Plenty of sensible people are deeply conscious of inflation, the costly burdens of the space age and the whole complex of problems arising from the fact that an expanding America is stampeding to the cities.

THE LACK of leadership in Washington is not questioned by politicians. Students of the underlying trends — social and economic, which find expression in political developments — show alarm. But no real "belly issue" or emotion-packed problem seems to be swaying the voters who are so widely reported to be intending to register a great protest vote against the Administration.

There is much truth, too, in the charge made so plaintively by the political partisans that there is little difference today between the parties. Perhaps if Democrats were not doing so well that they hesitate to rock the boat, this might change. But even in California they only try now to hold what all present portents indicate is theirs. It is enough, they argue, so why do more?

POSSIBLY President Eisenhower and Vice-President Richard M. Nixon may change all this. They possess the White House and all the vast prestige of their great offices.

But so for it seems that they have no ideas to express, while in the language of partisanship, the Democrats beat them to the draw. Months ago that brilliant instinctive politician, Senator Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, advised all his fellow-Democrats to just run against the Republicans, and most of them have taken his advice.

DON'T CUT it fine, Humphrey counseled in effect, and don't talk about us because we really haven't been able to take the initiative from the President and never can, so just harp on what a sorry lot the Republicans are.

The Senator also sensed that the Republicans who were cutting up Eisenhower would be of great help to the opposition, and he was aware, as all insiders long have been, that the state GOP organizations were beset with feuds.

Significantly, the only outstanding Democrat who is in real trouble, Governor Averell Harriman of New York, has not been following the Humphrey rule. Harriman, of course, has a fresh, vigorous personality opposing him in Nelson Rockefeller, but he has played Rockefeller's game by talking about Rockefeller rather than emphasizing that he has, in Democratic eyes, the fatal flaw — he is a Republican.

SHOULD the election story turn out far differently than is now forecast, the pulse-takers will have to face the fact that their techniques have the old and out-of-fashion look they have been attributing to the GOP.

In 1948, they were mistaken about the fortunes of one man — former President Harry Truman. This year they have been examining the cases of many men from coast to coast and reporting with near-unanimity that Democrats are headed for amazing triumphs.

The politicians, if an upset occurs, will also have proved that in 1958 they know very little about their own trade and the American voter of today.

Rich Politicians Find Funds Are Scarce

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Most amusing and colorful highlight of this year's political campaign is the New York spectacle in which the two richest candidates in the country are making like they were hard up for cash with which to electioneer.

These two poor rich men are of course Democrat Averell Harriman and Republican Nelson A. Rockefeller, running for governor in the Empire State.

The Fortune magazine survey on 75 wealthiest American families put Nelson Rockefeller in the 100 million to 200 million dollar class, Averell Harriman 75 to 100 million.

The general assumption has been that with all that money behind them, political headquarters for the two candidates would be rolling in dough and campaign expenses would offer no problem. Inquiries put to both headquarters, however, bring out a different story.

Managers for both candidates are going around for broke, complaining that campaign contributions are hard to come by. This, however, is par for the course. Both parties hope to have more money for the windup.

THERE IS no legal maximum on the amount of money that may be spent in a gubernatorial election in New York. The only limits are set by what campaign workers can raise and public opinion against rich men trying to buy an election.

This latter curb is obviously having its influence on the two New York candidates for governor. Neither wants to give the impression that his personal fortune has been thrown into this contest.

In Rockefeller's case, a $20,000 limit has been placed on the amount of his own money going into the campaign. No similar figure is obtainable from Harriman headquarters. But the word is that the governor is not spending a lot of his own money on his re-election.

The way around this hurdle, of course, is for the families of the two candidates to kick in. Both the Harriman and Rockefeller tribes are well enough healed to help if the need arises.

THAT'S WHY campaign contribution and expenditure reports to be filed this year will be watched with special interest, to see who gives how much to whom.

New York law requires candidates for state office to file reports on their campaign contributions and expenditures 10 days before election and a final report within 20 days after election. That puts the deadlines on October 25 and November 24.

In general, headquarters of the two candidates expect that campaign expenses will be at about the same level this year that they were in 1954 — maybe a little higher. Gov. Harriman defeated Senator Irving M. Ives in that election for the $50,000-a-year job.

Reports filed with the Secretary of State at Albany, Nov. 18, 1954, showed Democratic state committee expenditures of $1,067,944. Republicans $884,879.

Both figures seem pretty high, even for the richest state in the union. But that's what modern campaigning costs.

Television time for a state hook-up of six stations costs $10,000 for each half hour.

ROCKEFELLER has booked six telecasts — one a week for his campaign. But a couple of extras may be scheduled for the two final weeks.

Gov. Harriman has averaged two broadcasts a week, but they have been put on with other state candidates. Republicans claim the Democrats have an advantage in that New York labor unions have been buying time for Gov. Harriman.

On the other side of the fence, Democrats claim that the Republicans have been spending bigger money than the Harriman camp can afford for advertising car cards.

All campaign expenses are of course met by having a multiplicity of committees who go out and raise their own funds. In addition to the regular state committees, the Republicans have a Citizens' Committee for Rockefeller and Keating, the Democrats an Independent Citizens' Committee for Harriman and Hogan.

Glancing Sideways

NEW YORK — Whoever that fellow was who wrote about the world beating a path to your door if you invent a better mousetrap has just been proved right. Carlos Grossi has built a better mousetrap and Cleveland people tell me there is a discernible path being worn in the concrete street outside his factory.

But don't think it came easy for Carlos: he had to study mice for 30 years to learn their ways. Result: an aquatic trap into which they slide after climbing a baited ladder and being led to disaster by softly winking lights. Which makes mice not much different from man — man, too, has been led to destruction often enough by softly winking lights.

MY SECRET Detroit informant says that nothing, but nothing, in years has caused so much buyer tumult as swivel seats in the new cars.

"It looks to me in the years to come that testing swivel seats on used cars will replace tire-kicking. Swivel seats have been available in barber shops and the saloons for years, but it took my Detroit a long time to harness the idea into a car. Also, my Detroit doesn't believe in Togetherness, obviously.

"The seats swivel away from each other instead of toward. The boys from Bloomfield Hill have struck a blow for apartheid. The kind of swain who makes reluctant girls walk back from a ride has a new help now. All he has to do is throw open the door and give the seat a spin—he'll fly out into the night like a pig down a greased chute.

"My company does not have swivel seats this year. I wish we did. Darn those Dodge and Chrysler people. They have the hottest thing since four-wheel brakes and safety glass."

THERE WAS a TV movie ad in a New York paper the other day showing a blank-faced monster plotting evil. And right next to him was a professional model showing a new coat for women. Darned if they both didn't look enough like zombies to be brother and sister.

"A gentleman from New Jersey observed the resemblance and sent along the clippings to prove that fashion models may know how to wear clothes but facially resemble something from the grave.

Aid For The Man In The Moon

WASHINGTON — At the secret headquarters of the Lunar Protective Association, I have interviewed its founder and president, Homer J. Dodge, who claims success so far in keeping people from shooting stuff at the moon.

"The moon has got to be protected from those who would drill a hole in the face of the man living there," said founder Dodge, who functions as historian of the National Press Club between jousts with those who would mess up the moon.

"THAT'S WHY we've got to operate secretly," said Dodge. "There's opposition to our program at the Pentagon and we cannot let them know what we are doing. So far I can report complete success. They've tried twice now to shoot the moon and both times we've foiled 'em."

Moon rhymes with June, the founder continued, and if the moon doesn't stay where it is and in one piece, without holes punched in it, what will poets, song writers and young lovers do?

"THAT IS WHY we are standing foursquare," he said. "The fact is that only one living thing ever has approached the moon and she was a cow. She never made it and after jumping over she went into orbit, where we can presume she still is contemplating her mistake.

The founder added that he's been trying to think of a good name for those members dedicated to lunar protection, but the best he's come up with so far is lunatics.

"Lunatics maybe we are," he said. "But what are those people who are trying to ruin our moon and maybe make the tides run backward and eliminate moonshine."

PARTICULARLY bitter is the founder at those scientists who held a press conference here the other day to announce their plans porter has a warped sense of humor. He brings a Geiger counter to parties and at an opportune moment says: "You think all this atom bomb testing isn't poisoning the atmosphere?" Listen." Then holding the counter in his right hand he balances it across his left wrist on which he has his illuminated dial watch strapped. Naturally, the counter chatters freely and fiercely, scaring people silly.

Want a personal skeleton for your closet? . . . I know where you can get a 16-inch plastic replica of the human frame, and all the bones come apart for individual study.

What is all this ghoulish information today? But the same actor who does the Geiger bit has bought eight of the little skeletons and has named them for the drama critics. They hang from his living room ceiling with miniature hangman's ropes around their bony necks.

DO YOU collect unset diamonds? Never worry about burglars taking them. All you have to do is to keep them in glasses of water. The stones become invisible in water. Of course, if a thirsty burglar decides to take a quick drink from one of the glasses you will have lost your diamonds.

You think the Gabor's are always trailed by date-seeking men? "The World of Suzie Wong" opened on Broadway the other night. Miss Magda Gabor took her sister, Eva. No men, no dates, just the girls.

Their presence once more brought about that ticklish moment when a critic, having recently roasted an actress, meets her face to face. Coming out, I said, "Hello, Magda," and she said: "You know my sister," and sister Eva neither flashed fire nor served ice, although this drama reviewer less than 10 days ago found her less than entrancing as an actress.

THE OLD DAYS when actresses horsewhipped critics have passed, fortunately. But I still say that the smartest of the lot of them is Magda, if for no other reason than when she despaired of finding a clothes closet tall enough to hold her evening dresses off the floor and called in the carpenters and had them build one closet nine feet high, much brains to solve any problem.

to turn the moon into a giant vacuum tube.

The experts were serious. They said that since there is a vacuum on the moon it would be a simple matter to set up there the grids of a vacuum tube to collect electrons from the sun and thereby manufacture electricity.

They said they had the process all worked out; all they needed now was somebody to deliver the machinery. This left the Lunar Protective Association agast.

"THOSE people without compunction would land on the moon if they could," he said. "They'd trample all over the greatest supply in the universe of green cheese. They'd drive stakes in it. They'd bomb holes in it. They'd probably try to plant grass in it to pretty up the fronts of their Quonset huts. They simply have no poetry in their souls."

Or love for cheese, either, the founder added pensively. He said he and his fellow lunatics, who now number some of the leading citizens hereabouts, consider ridiculous the hopes of the military to see via radar what's on the other, or off, side of the moon.

"They could have come to us and we could have told 'em, without all this folderol," he said. "The other side of the moon is a busy place. Mostly it is devoted to a cheese factory and any Sputniks flying around up there would badly disrupt production."

SO BE IT. The Lunar Protective Association hath spoken. The founder says flatly that the third try at shooting the moon, scheduled soon, won't make it, either. The lunatics are watching and busy they are, too, with their instruments to send all missiles in the other direction.

Nonsense? Of course, it is. But Homer Dodge enjoys life (and looking at the moon) and I thought maybe you'd also care to be a lunatic. There are no dues. The founder demands only loyalty and an appreciation of moon, June and tune.

Reporter's Notebook

S.S. BRASIL (at sea)—It is nice for every good girl to learn three things early in life.

They are: how to play the piano, how to sit down gracefully without showing her knees, and how to swim.

Two of these ladylike accomplishments are presently impossible for our daughter, Tracy Ann. At the age of five she is all knees, and she beats a piano as if it were a drum.

But she has achieved the third feat. She has learned to swim, and in our family this now ranks as the greatest victory a sea since Trafalgar.

At first I was dubious about taking Tracy on this maiden voyage of the new Moore-mack liner Brasil to South America.

"She'll miss nearly three weeks of kindergarten," I objected to my wife. "Getting off to a good start in kindergarten is highly important."

"Well," replied Frances, a bit acidly, "I think with luck she'll be able to overcome the handicap by the time she enters college."

WE FINALLY made a compromise. Tracy could come along if she agreed faithfully each day to keep up with her kindergarten home work—paper scissoring and water coloring. You can't afford to fall behind in these vital subjects. If you don't learn to cut out paper dolls in kindergarten, you'll never learn it at Radcliffe.

One night at dinner she gravely confided to staff Capt. Robert H. Bradwell: "My five best friends are all captains. There's you and Johnny and three others."

Investigation disclosed Johnny and the other three "captains" were all bellboys. To Tracy there was no distinction. She still ranks people by the way they smile rather than by the gold braid they wear.

From the first day she took to the children's swimming pool like a porpoise, and her nose sprouted a new freckle an hour under the hot southern sun as she struggled valiantly to swim.

SHE WAS HEEDLESS of the danger of drowning, but the pool guard said: "The less afraid they are of the water, the quicker they start swimming."

One afternoon she simply pushed away from the pool wall and set out for the other side, her small paws flailing the water like those of a skinned porpoise.

She made the other side and turned—a woman flushed with the exultation of a major triumph—and immediately swam back. She swallowed less than half the contents of the pool on the way.

The next day she entered a swimming race for beginners and won over a 10-year-old opponent.

"That wasn't easy," she said later, still breathless. "Ten-year-old girls have awful long arms."

Now every day she insists that her mother and I enter the water, too, and take swimming lessons from her. It does no good for me to point out I've been swimming for more than 30 years and, bad as I am, probably won't ever get much better.

"Just watch me and do like I do," says Tracy confidently. "If you're going to learn to do something, you might as well learn how to do it really right."

Assignment America

NEW YORK—Every kid worth his schmalz in America thinks he can write jingles for TV commercials. That goes for his old lady and old man too.

They're so simple, one might even say idiotically simple. "What'll you have, Pabst Blue Ribbon" indeed.

On this subject, Bill Gale is something of an authority.

He is a patient man, with ulcers. He came by this stoicism and this stomach honesty, by writing and peddling such jingles.

"What'll you have, P.B.R." is one of his, and so is "It's such a comfort to Take a Bus and Leave the Driving to Us." Not to mention a touching little ditty that goes "Buy Borden's, Buy Borden's, You've heard Elsie Say."

"It's a tough racket," says Gale snapping his fingers to keep up his spirits, "and you've gotta have a strong stomach. I don't. Which is why I have ulcers."

He smiled suddenly and tapped his feet. "But oh, oh, oh," he bounced, "Look at those residuals."

AS A FELLOW who has grossed some $400,000 in recent years with his singy sales messages, Bill is the man to advise the amateur jingle writers how to go about it.

Rule one is "first take an ad in a newspaper, and pickout the identifiable punchline. Almost every product has a slogan that must be played up in a commercial, whether it's musical or spoken.

"Next, get a melody that sounds like a song you've heard before—so people can hum it without thinking. If it's a melody that is not in the public domain, change it enough so that you're within your legal rights. If it is in the P.D., you're safe.

"Usually a song becomes public domain 52 years after it is written. To illustrate, Gale points out his "What'll You Have" commercial was set to the tune of "10 Little Indians."

"When you put the message, including punch line, to your easily-remembered music, you've got a jingle."

"Now write 100 more of the same, and start knocking on doors. It won't be easy, because everybody—including the account executive's wife—thinks he's a songwriter. But remember, this is a great place, this U.S.A. You can go around endlessly, knocking on doors, and nobody throws you in jail. Finally, somebody opens up."

IT HELPS, of course, if you can afford to make a recording of your jingle rather than merely trying to see the music in the printed score. In this case, use singers who are "intelligible but not great."

"It's a long standing rule in the jingles business. If the listener is likely to say, 'That's a great singer' instead of 'that's a good product'—you get a big fat zero for effort."

Gale is a good musician, not just a gimmick man. He's a band leader and arranger for his bread-and-butter—a jingle writer for his caviar and champagne. For his hand, he writes good music; for his jingles, schmalz.

"But do not look down on schmalz; otherwise known as corn," he suggests. "Time has proven that corn, as expressed in musical advertising since the 18th Century, is one thing that never goes out of style."

Jurors Find Parker Guilty In Shooting

A jury in Circuit Court yesterday afternoon found Ralph W. Parker, about 50, of Oldtown, guilty of assault with intent to kill Branson Sisler, 71, also of Oldtown.

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris, who deferred sentencing the man, pointed out that the maximum sentence for such a felony is 15 years in the Maryland penitentiary.

The judge asked that David M. Steele, probational officer in Allegany County, check into Parker's background and submit a report to him.

The petit jury, which included five women, did not find Parker guilty on a second count which was simple assault, a lesser charge. The jury got the case at 3:30 p. m. and within about 40 minutes reached its verdict.

The defendant did not testify on his own behalf. The judge pointed out that he had the option to testify.

The shooting occurred about 10 p. m. July 29 at the Sisler home in Oldtown. The victim was struck in the arm and chest by pellets from a 20-gauge shotgun.

The blast went through a screened porch window of the Sisler home, a screen door and glanced off the wall. Some of the pellets hit the victim.

Several witnesses, who testified, admitted that Parker threatened Sisler.

Harold E. Naughton, defense attorney, told the jurors in his opening statement that his client had no intention of killing Sisler or of committing a crime because at the time of the shooting he was "stinking drunk". Parker did not have control of his mental faculties at the time due to the drinking he had done during the hours preceding the shooting, Naughton claimed.

Williams Favored To Win Unprecedented Sixth Term

By GEORGE WEEKS
United Press International
LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—Gov. G. Mennen Williams is favored to win an unprecedented sixth term, two weeks from today in a Democratic tide that could weaken GOP control of the Michigan congressional delegation and the state Legislature.

That's how most observers are betting late in a dull campaign that just now is beginning to quicken for the first time since Democrats swept to their biggest primary landslide in state history on Aug. 5.

The GOP, however, claims its chances are getting better as out-state Republicans rally around a polio - crippled college professor and a legless war veteran.

Endorsed by UAW

Williams, whose stature as a presidential contender in 1960 will rise or fall Nov. 4, faces one of his strongest opponents in a decade in Paul D. Bagwell, a hard-campaigning Michigan State University speech teacher with an enthusiastic following.

But Bagwell is bucking voter apathy, shaky financing, early-campaign defeatism within his party, a Democratic trend, a powerful labor - political party coalition, and Williams himself, who has been campaigning 16 to 20 hours a day.

The same factors are against Sen. Charles E. Potter (R-Mich.), a double-amputee whose bid for a second term is jeopardized by Lt. Gov. Philip A. Hart, a father of eight who often campaigns from a helicopter flown by his wife.

Both Williams and his protegee, Hart, have endorsement of Michigan's vote-disciplined United Auto Workers Union.

On Defensive
Williams has been forced to wage his first defensive campaign because Republicans charge his alliance with UAW president Walter P. Reuther is chasing industry and jobs out of Michigan.

Potter claims Hart is a captive of labor. Hart says Potter is a captive of big business.

The labor issue has been soft-pedaled lately since there is relative peace in the auto industry, although both parties will try to link the other with Teamsters president James R. Hoffa.

Williams counters the main GOP issue by charging Republicans with "smearing Michigan" and by blaming economic woes on "the Eisenhower recession."

Williams, Bagwell, Potter and Hart clashed on these issues in a rare face-to-face meeting Saturday at a political workshop sponsored by the United Press International Editors of Michigan.

See Williams Victory
A poll of 10 of the editors after the meeting resulted in a unanimous prediction of a Williams victory and an even split over the Potter-Hart race.

Democrats see their ticket winning by more than 300,000. Williams won by 290,000 in 1956. Republicans are silent, but see Hart trailing far behind Williams.

Republicans insist they have a chance. Bagwell says Williams is "running scared." Potter says Hart's appeal is overestimated and that Hart will trail far behind Williams.

State Elections Director Robert Montgomery expects only about 2,250,000 of the state's 3,500,000 registered voters to go to the polls.

Two Brothers Are Sentenced

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris yesterday sentenced two brothers after they entered guilty pleas in Circuit Court to burglary charges.

Albert Theodore Rockwell, 21, of 612 Virginia Avenue, was given two years in the Maryland Reformatory for Males. His brother, Edward Thomas Rockwell, 17, same address, received a suspended two years sentence to the reformatory and placed under supervision of the probation officer, David M. Steele.

The two brothers were arrested and indicted in the burglary of the Brock Salvage Company office where they obtained a .22 calibre target pistol and $270 in cash.

Appeals Heard In Court

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris heard three criminal appeal cases yesterday afternoon in Circuit Court.

Robert E. Adams, 22, of 209 Hay Street, who was charged with contributing to the delinquency of three minor boys, entered a plea of guilty. Judge Harris reduced a two-year sentence in the Maryland House of Correction to one year which he will begin serving at the conclusion of a sentence he is now serving in Allegany County jail on a motor vehicle violation.

On August 27 he was taken before Fred Anderson in Juvenile Court and was sentenced to the two years in the House of Correction. During the hearing yesterday Donald W. Mason, assistant state's attorney, outlined the defendant's past record.

In a non-support case heard on July 3 before Fred Anderson in Juvenile Court, George Wellings, of Consol was sentenced to one year in the Maryland House of Correction, which was suspended if the defendant paid Mrs. Wellings $25.25 during June and $30 every month thereafter.

Both Mr. Wellings and Mrs. Wellings testified in the appeal case yesterday. They have been separated for six months, according to testimony. Attorney William A. Gunter, counsel for Mr. Wellings, said his client did not desert his wife.

She said she was ordered from the house and that she had received $175 toward her support in the past six months. He agreed to pay Mrs. Wellings $20 a month if she doesn't come back to his home. Judge Harris found him not guilty.

A motor vehicle appeal case originally heard by Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick was also heard yesterday.

Joseph E. Campbell, who pleaded not guilty, was fined $15 and court costs yesterday on a charge of failing to keep to the right center of the highway.

A similar fine was imposed by Magistrate Dick on July 18.

Awards Given Scouts For Camp Work

Three-Days Held At Fairgo With Over 200 Boys Attending

High honors were received by two Boy Scout Troops and two Explorer Posts of Nemacolin Trail District, Potomac Council, at a jamboree held at Fairgo recently.

Receiving the Pioneer Citation for outstanding camping ability were Troop 9, sponsored by Cresaptown Methodist Church; Troop 83, sponsored by St. Paul's Lutheran Church; Post 13, First Presbyterian Church, and Post 92, sponsored by Emmanuel Methodist Church.

In order to be eligible for this award, scout units must first win the other two citations for the Camporee which are the camping and participation awards. Then the unit must hike at least one-half a mile to the camp, bake its own bread, use no canned foods and cook by fires built without the use of matches.

Patrols of 10 troops received the Camping Citation based on the basic camping skills performed as individuals and as patrols.

Winners in this group were Troop 7, Cumberland Rotary; Troop 87, Northeast Elementary School; Troop 79, Oldtown PTA-Sportsman Club; Troop 80, Bowling Green Fire Company; Troop 6, SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church; Troop 9, Cresaptown Methodist Church; Troop 17, Kelley-Springfield Tire Company; Troop 2, B&O YMCA; Troop 89, St. Paul's Lutheran Church, and Troop 48, St. John's Episcopal Church, Frostburg.

Awarded Participation Citations were patrols from Troop 48, Troop 80, Troop 7, Troop 79, Troop 87, Troop 2, Troop 6 and Troop 11, LaVale Baptist Church. This award was based on scoutcraft.

Each troop or post who won an honor at the Camporee received a printed citation suitable for framing.

Nearly 200 scouts, explorers and leaders took part in the three-day camping trip. Paul Cornwell, district camping and activities chairman, was in charge of the program and John Kingston was Camporee director.

Youths Injured In Auto Mishap Near Ridgeley

Paul H. Apple, 18, of 7 Virginia Avenue, and Richard Rudolph, 20, Central Avenue, were admitted to Memorial Hospital Sunday night following a two-car accident south of Ridgeley.

Attaches said Apple sustained multiple lacerations of his right ear and is in "satisfactory" condition.

Rudolph was released from the hospital yesterday. Driver of the other car was Donald Wolford, about 20, of RD 1, Ridgeley.

Chief of Police Jack Cornett of Ridgeley said that the accident occurred when the car driven by Rudolph passed another car on the brow of Reed's Hill and crashed headon into the Wolford car which was traveling north toward Ridgeley.

SRC Buys Tract On U. S. 40 At Flintstone

A tract of 15 acres in the Flintstone area has been purchased by the State Roads Commission from Mrs. Carolee Nixon.

The land, located in the Flintstone area, will be used for relocation of U.S. Route 40 on the east slope of Martin's Mountain to the west slope of Polish Mountain. Papers have been filed in the land records office of the clerk of Allegany County Court.

In a study of teenagers by Eugene Gilbert & Co., the newspaper was shown to be a big influence on their living and spending habits.

Approximately 55 per cent of the entire Canadian newsprint industry's output was used by U. S. newspaper advertisers last year.

People in the U. S. spend over $2 million every day for their newspapers. That's more than is collected daily from all the parking meters in the country.

Dinner Planned October 29

The Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a "Program of Action Dinner" on Wednesday, October 29, at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Earl D. Chaney, president, will preside at the meeting which will open at 6:30 p. m. with a buffet dinner.

During the meeting, each member will be given an opportunity to present what he believes to be the most important job the Chamber should undertake during the next year or so.

A plan designed to allow those present to present, discuss and consider proposals in a short period will be used at the meeting.

Proposals for Chamber action will be presented, in order of urgency, to the Executive Committee of the Chamber and will be adopted as the Chamber's program after action of the Executive Board.

The dinner meeting is open to all members of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Robert C. Petersen, manager of the Chamber, said that if any resident of the area has an idea for the action program, he will see that it is brought to the attention of the Chamber.

Purpose of the meeting, it was explained, is to get ideas for action.

Study Report Of Filter Plant Almost Ready

Two Employees To Be Affected By Retirement

A study of the operation of Lake Gordon filtration plant is almost completed by Water Commissioner G. Ray Light.

It was pointed out that the recent order of the Mayor and Council, providing for mandatory retirement at age 70, goes into effect on November 1.

The order affects two members of the Water Department, Andrew G. Bender, 72, chief clerk of the Water Department office for many years, and George J. Lydinger, 87, caretaker for the Fort Hill reservoir here.

Subject to the approval of the Civil Service Commission, James P. Twigg, clerk in the Water Department office, is to be promoted and the present classification of clerk may be abolished, a City Hall spokesman said, and depending on the work load, it is possible that a female employee will be hired.

An order, creating the position of a second clerk in the Water Department was passed by the Mayor and Council yesterday.

The above plan, it was explained, would result in a saving to the city. Even if an additional employee were hired, it was explained, the city would save about $300 annually.

Some arrangements are to be made, it was reported, to replace Mr. Lydinger, but the appointment will be on a temporary basis as studies reveal it will undoubtedly be possible to abolish the position after automatic equipment is installed so that the operation of the reservoir and pumps can be checked at the filtration plant.

Similar equipment is already in operation at the city's sewage treatment plant.

Man Turns Down Parole

After Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris gave William "Buck" Brant a six-month suspended sentence with some stiff probation requirements, the appellant decided the terms were too tough. Brant, who had been sentenced to six months in the House of Correction in Trial Magistrate's Court by Magistrate Morris Baron, had appealed the sentence to Circuit Court.

But the terms imposed by Judge Harris were too tough, Brant decided, so he asked if he could continue to serve his term in the county jail. Judge Harris granted Brant's request.

Surplus Food Plan Ready For Operation

Start Depends On Date When Articles Become Available

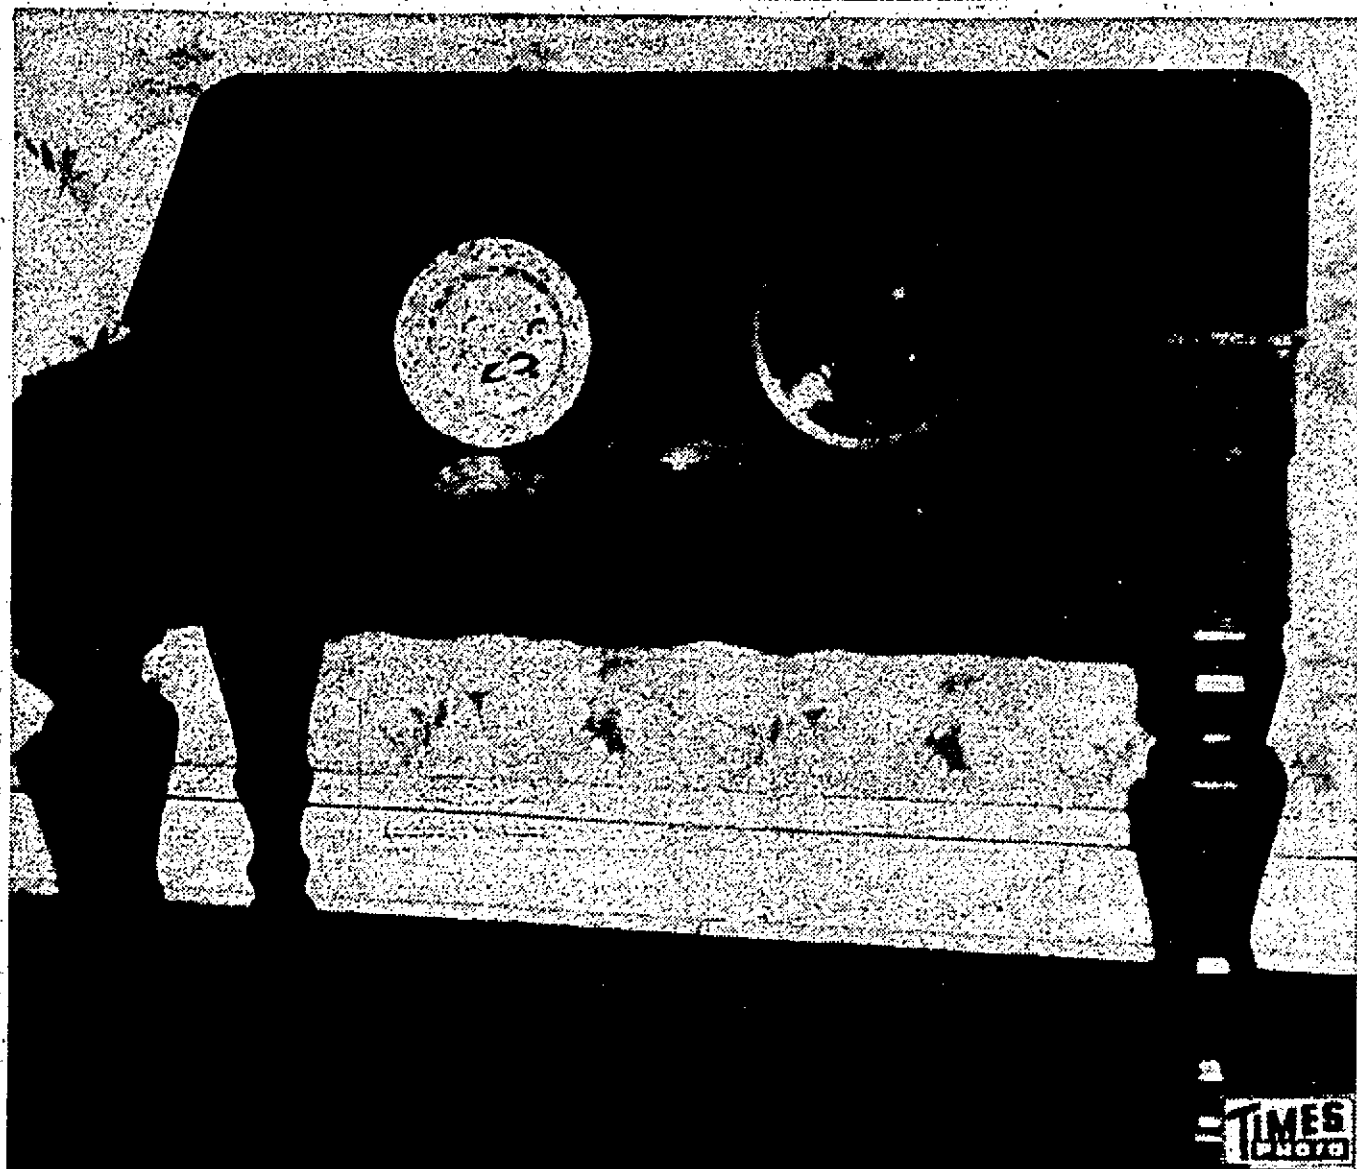

The surplus food program can be placed in operation in Allegany County just as soon as the U. S. Department of Agriculture gives a date when food will be made available.

Final papers in the long drawn out procedure seeking federal surplus food for the needy in Allegany County have been sent to William Brugger, supervisor of the donable food program for the State Department of Procurement and Budget.

Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson said the county has been seeking final approval for the program since last April. He said the program could have been in operation long ago if Commissioner James Orr and former Commissioner William H. Lemmert had not "dragged their feet" when he proposed the plan more than a year ago. Commissioner Orr denied that he had "dragged his feet" in connection with the program.

The board also instructed their attorney, Gorman E. Getty, to notify the State Roads Commission district office here that the county has never used prison labor on roads and does not intend to do so at any future time.

The SRC letter was one of 23 sent to the various Maryland counties concerning the use of prison labor on roads built under the federal aid program. It is against the law for any roadways built under federal aid to employ prison labor.

Police Pickup Two Escapees

BALTIMORE (AP)—Two youths who escaped from the Maryland Training School for Boys were picked up early today in a stolen car.

The institution said the two boys, one 16 and the other 17, left their cottage about 7 p.m. last night.

They declined to identify them. Police said the 17-year-old was from Cumberland. The 16-year-old, treated at Union Memorial Hospital for cuts on his left hand, was reported by police and his family to be a nephew of Gov. McKeldin.

The car was stopped by Patrolman James Davis in a routine check of teen-age drivers during the night. The car's registration was traced to a Towson clergyman. Davis said the 16-year-old admitted breaking a left front window of the car to get into it.

The former owners of Harriett O. were James Lee and Mary Ellen Doody.

The high bidder today was Richard Hawse, this city, who secured the horse for $500. Deputy Sheriff Edwin Lewis conducted the auction and said he understood Hawse had purchased the animal for a local family.

Jury Hearing Case Against Liquor Store

Testimony was started today in Circuit Court before a jury in the case against the Cumberland Liquor Store, Henderson Avenue, on charges of selling intoxicants to minors.

The charge against the liquor store resulted from an investigation of a party at a Central Avenue home last May 3 when five youths allegedly ordered three cases of beer from the store by telephone.

When city police, who were called by neighbors, arrived at the home they could not gain entrance. Officer Clarence Valentine testified he looked in a window and saw one youth "passed out" on a couch and another in the same condition on a chair.

Two other youths were taken into custody outside the home and were taken to police headquarters. A fifth boy was picked up the next day as were the two who were in the residence.

State's Attorney James S. Getty and Donald W. Mason, assistant state's attorney, prosecuted. Milton Gerson is defense attorney.

Mineral County Reports First Hunting Mishap

The first hunting mishap in Mineral County occurred yesterday when Forrest L. Mills, 50, of 3818 Muskegon Avenue, South Chicago, was shot in the back and upper right shoulder by his brother, Ivan O. Mills, 54, of Barnes Street, Keyser.

Mills, who was admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, received 26 No. 6 pellets in his shoulder and back. His condition is reported as good. The accident occurred on the Fried Meat Ridge, about seven miles south east of Keyser, at about 5:30.

According to Claude E. Rice, Mineral County conservation officer, who investigated, Mills was sitting behind a tree when he moved and his brother mistook his arm for a squirrel and fired.

A party of four were hunting turkey in the area with others being J. W. Mills, father of the wounded man, and Johnny Ack, brother-in-law of Mills, both of Keyser. Mills was taken to the hospital in the Rogers Funeral Home ambulance.

Two arrests were also made over the weekend with William Bennett, 46, of Ashfield Street, Piedmont, being fined $20 and $5 costs for carrying a loaded rifle in a motor vehicle. He was apprehended near Reese's Mill and tried by Gay Mellon, Justice of the Peace, at Keyser.

Beall Voices Optimism On GOP Outlook

Cites Warm Welcome Given To Candidates Throughout Maryland

U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall told a group attending a Republican rally last night in Frostburg that he was very optimistic as a result of the warm welcome he and statewide candidates have been receiving in their tours of the 23 counties and Baltimore City.

Sen. Beall pointed out that his opponent said here last Monday that "Senator Beall was not very well known in Baltimore City." The Senator commented that he believes he is "more favorably known."

He also lashed out at the Pollack machine in Baltimore City. George Henderson, former chief judge and Army colonel, introduced General James P. S. Devereux and cited the candidate's record as a war hero and a prisoner of war.

Elected Four Times

He said Rep. Devereux has been elected four times to Congress from Maryland's Second District, each time by greater majorities in the predominantly Democratic district.

The gubernatorial candidate said he was "proud to head the great Republican ticket with such excellently qualified running mates."

Mr. Devereux cited the accomplishments of the Maryland Republican administration, including the road modernization program and the expansion of Frostburg State Teachers College.

He cited for the record that his speech before the teachers in Baltimore made clear that state and local governments each have responsibilities to be upheld and that as far as the teachers are concerned, would see to it, if elected, that the state upholds its responsibility and carries its fair burden.

Talks On Issues

Rep. Devereux said he has called on his opponent all during the campaign to talk on issues, adding:

"Now that he has tried to talk on issues his speeches have not been very intelligent."

He cited as an example Mr. Tawes' promise to grant teachers pay raises without a tax increase adding:

"That can not be very intelligent... if so... my opponent must be wasting some of the state's money."

He said that if his opponent can grant a pay increase without a boost in taxes he must be a "magician" and he did not believe intelligent people of Maryland will believe his opponent is a magician.

He also lashed out at the Pollack machine and machine politics in general.

Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde, introduced by Earl E. Mangos, said 31 of the bills and resolutions he introduced have been enacted into law adding, he would make this record of accomplishments with any legislator who entered Congress the same time he did.

Other Speakers

He said four of his bills and two companion bills directly affected Sixth District citizens. Cited were the bills which made Social Security possible for police and firemen, and tax relief for small business.

Rep. Hyde said his opponent's campaign continues to be a campaign of misstatement of facts. He said he has been charged with voting against a bill to help economically distressed areas.

"This is not true," he said, and the vote is - matter of record. "If my opponent can not tell you the truth now, how can you trust him to keep his word to you as a Congressman?"

He said the opposition party has not talked issues in the campaign and "must have a weak platform, for they never mention it."

California Hurts State, Speaker Says

Goldstein Declares Contracts Moved West To Help Knowland

By The Associated Press

Maryland's economy is being sapped for the sake of Republican political campaigns in California, Louis S. Goldstein, Democratic candidate for State comptroller, said last night.

Goldstein noted that the Naval Powder Factory at Indian Head, Md., lost some government contracts as did Bethlehem Shipyard at Sparrows Point. The government also decided to close down basic training at Bainbridge Naval Training Center, he said.

"The West Coast rot 'em all," Goldstein told 600 persons at a Wicomico County fund-raising banquet at Salisbury.

Help For Knowland

He said the shifts will benefit California's economy at a time when William Knowland is in a tough race for governor and when Vice President Nixon is being groomed for the 1960 GOP presidential nomination.

The Republicans, meanwhile, waited eagerly for the arrival of Nixon at Baltimore's Friendship International Airport this afternoon. The vice president will participate in a press conference to be televised in Baltimore and Salisbury late today, then speak at a $100-a-plate GOP dinner at the Pikesville Armory tonight. Some 7,000 party members are expected at the dinner.

Standing by at the head of a reception committee to greet Nixon were Gov. McKeldin and Sen. John Marshall Butler. The top two GOP candidates, James P. Devereux for governor and Sen. J. Glenn Beall for re-election, were also on hand.

Ends Full Day

The Democratic rally in Salisbury last night ended a day of politicking by Democratic candidates in Wicomico County. Appearing at the rally with Goldstein were Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore, nominee for the U. S. Senate; J. Millard Tawes, candidate for governor, and Atty. Gen. C. Ferdinand Byrd, seeking re-election.

The main speaker at the Salisbury banquet was Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho). He attacked the foreign policy of the Republican national administration and predicted an increase in Democratic members of Congress after the Nov. 4 general election.

In a television speech at Salisbury, Tawes referred to his Republican opponent as a man of dissent "who approaches every problem of government with a narrow-minded, negative look."

Negative Record

Devereux's congressional voting record, Tawes said, "is an entirely negative record. It is a record of opposition, a record of nos. It is a do-nothing, say-nothing, think-nothing record."

Tawes said the GOP candidate has been against school construction, a tax cut for small taxpayers, aid to veterans seeking reemployment, aid to depressed areas and "even against statehood for Alaska."

Tawes also told his audience he has "refrained from dignifying every outburst of my opponent with an answer" because "his shrill statements have been so obviously insincere and designed just to get a headline, that they have no real effect on the thinking voters of this state."

Earlier yesterday, Devereux had charged Tawes with exhibiting a contempt for "justice and press freedom."

Justice Twisted

The statement issued from Devereux's campaign headquarters said Tawes was "a wartime gasoline chiseler" who misused "a State-owned Cadillac limousine and war-rationed State fuel permits to take a 1,600-mile joyride to Georgia in 1943."

"What is much more at issue in this election," Devereux said, "is Maryland's government was corrupted and its justice twisted to punish the editor who exposed the illegal pleasure trip."

It constituted such a threat to a free press that the publishers of America's great newspapers entered the fight to protect and vindicate Reeves Matthews, editor of the weekly Somerset News, from one of the most vicious attacks on journalism in American history.

Devereux also contended Tawes has "openly rebuked the press for publishing the Republican side of this campaign."

Post Office Job Assured

MT. LAKE PARK—Announcement was made yesterday from the office of Congressman DeWitt S. Hyde that the Post Office Department has approved plans for a new post office building at Mountain Lake Park.

The new postal facility is to be constructed under the Post Office Department's commercial casing program which utilizes the resources of private investors to obtain needed postal buildings. More than 2,500 new postal facilities have been built under this program since 1953.

Hyde pointed out that plans for the new facility here call for 1,584 square feet of interior floor space, a small truck loading platform and a 5,000 square-foot parking and maneuvering area for postal trucks and patrons of the office.

The present post office quarters here contains only 665 square feet of interior space and there is no truck loading platform.

Army Retains First Place In Grid Ratings

Ohio State Shoots Up After Week Of Upsets

By EARL WRIGHT

NEW YORK (UPI)—Army was No. 1 in the United Press International college football ratings today for the second straight week but Ohio State replaced Auburn in second place in the wake of a wave of upsets.

Of the first 10 teams, only Army remained in the position it held last week. Iowa and Oklahoma moved back into the select group and Northwestern made its first appearance of the season in the top 10. They replaced Wisconsin, Michigan State and Navy—three victims of Saturday upsets.

Buckeyes Advance

Army, a 35-6 victor over Virginia, received 23 first-place votes and a total of 330 points from the 35 leading coaches who rate the teams for UPI. Ohio State advanced from fourth to second with eight first-place votes and 295 points as a result of its 49-8 victory over Indiana. Auburn, held to a 7-7 tie by Georgia Tech, slipped to third with a first-place vote and 201 points.

Texas and Louisiana State continued their steady rise in the ratings. Texas was fourth with a first-place vote and 174 points and Louisiana State was fifth with two first-place votes and 170 points.

Clemson Eleven

Iowa was sixth with 158, Mississippi seventh with 122, Oklahoma eighth with 103, Notre Dame ninth with 90 and Northwestern 10th with 80.

Clemson headed the second 10 group, Wisconsin, Purdue, Colorado, Michigan State, Texas Christian, the Air Force Academy, Pittsburgh, Oregon, and College of the Pacific rounded out the top 20 in that order. Georgia Tech, Navy and Tulsa were the only other teams mentioned in this week's ballots.

Wisconsin Drops From No. 4 To 13

By The Associated Press

Unbeaten Army, which added Virginia to its growing list of victims last Saturday, retained a firm hold on the No. 1 spot in the weekly Associated Press college football poll today.

The sports writers and sportscasters taking part in the balloting gave the Cadets 90 first-place votes and a total of 1,446 points. Ohio State, which moved from third to second place, drew only 14 first-place votes but had 1,153 points.

Wisconsin, No. 4 a week ago, dropped to 13th as a result of its defeat by Iowa. Michigan State, loser to Purdue, dropped from 15th to 20th. Navy, No. 6 last week, fell to 18th. The Midways were defeated by Tulane Saturday.

Iowa climbed from 13th to 7th. Northwestern leaped from 17th to 10th on the strength of its astonishing victory over Michigan. Oklahoma moved up from 11th to 9th through its lopsided victory over Kansas.

Auburn, in second place last week, dropped to fifth this week as a result of its tie with Georgia Tech, and Louisiana State jumped from 9th to 3rd through its convincing victory over Kentucky.

Texas climbed from seventh to fourth. Clemson remained in 10th place.

Ex-Ski Champion Dies In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—Carl Nilsen, an international ski champion, died here. He was 68.

Nilsen, four times U.S. senior division ski jumping champion, was past president of both the National and Central Ski Assns.

In 1924, he won honors as the most graceful skier in International Championships at Cary, Ill. Nilsen represented the United States in the Norwegian International Ski Championships in 1926.

Cause of death was not announced.

Although Patsy's days as a basketball player have long been over, he still maintains an avid interest in all sports. He takes in all of the Rose Bowl games his job permits, follows the Los Angeles Rams and was a regular at the home games of the Dodgers this past season at the Coliseum.

Gainer also loves golf and spends as much spare time as possible on the course. One of his frequent partners is another Patsy Gainer well remembered by Cumberland sports fans.

An older brother, Olsen Forrest (Patsy) Gainer is a dentist in Chico, Calif. A onetime standout amateur boxer here, Dr. Gainer took up golf only five years ago, according to brother Willard, he has become quite adroit at the game and is president of the Chico Country Club.

Dr. Gainer played football at Allegany High when that school was located on Greene Street, receiving his diploma in 1925. His ring career, although brilliant, was short, lasting only two years.

The Gainers have another brother who was also a star basketball player at Penn Avenue High. He is Edward who is living in Detroit.

Home Run Punch Wins For Lynch

NEW YORK (UPI)—Eddie Lynch, a light-hitting New York welterweight, must have felt like a pitcher blasting a home run when he stopped Charley Cummins of Philadelphia Monday night in the ninth round at St. Nicholas Arena.

Lynch, who had only one knock-out to his credit in 16 previous bouts, sent Cummins flying through the ropes with a solid right to the chin.

The Philadelphiaan scrambled back into the ring and regained his feet at the count of nine. However, he appeared so groggy that referee Barney Felix stopped the bout at 1:59 of the ninth session.

Lynch, favored at 11 to 5, weighed 131 pounds while Cummins scaled 148½. Cummings was a substitute for Tony Dibace of New York, who sustained a nose injury in training.

Monroe Named Net Coach Of Bobcats

Frostburg State Teachers College, taking another step toward broadening its athletic program, will be represented in tennis next year for the first time, it was announced today.

Three of the latest-type courts have been built on the Frostburg campus and it is planned to add three more. The courts are of grass-turf construction, a smooth, hard surface and green in color.

Coaching Frostburg's first tennis team will be Harding Monroe, a native of Pennsylvania, W. Va., who came here this year from Ohio. Thirty-seven years old and the father of four children, Mr. Monroe learned the net sport from Billy Jo Simonton, former Salem College star.

Mr. Monroe was graduated from Pennsylvania High in 1939, received his bachelor of science degree at Bowling Green (Ohio) State University in 1947 and last year obtained his master's at Kent State University, Kent, Ohio.

The Bobcat tennis coach played football three years in high school and basketball for two seasons. Bowling Green didn't institute tennis until 1945 but Mr. Monroe was a member of the team his last two years at the Ohio school. He has participated in and ranked well in tournaments staged in Ohio at Toledo, Findlay and Akron.

As of now, the best prospects at Frostburg are James Price of Westminster and Bill Brown, Cumberland. Any students interested in playing the game are requested to register with him.

Mr. Monroe said he plans to play home- and home matches this year with Fairmont (W. Va.) State College, perhaps Potomac State, and other schools in the area during the spring of 1959.

Lloyds Cover Marlboro Loss

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP)—Owners of 23 thoroughbreds and two lead ponies, destroyed in a fire at the Marlboro race track, will be reimbursed by Lloyds of London.

Jack Boniface, regional secretary of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Assn., said an agreement between the HBPA and race tracks provides that the association pay the first $25,000 of fire losses. A policy with Lloyds covers the remainder.

Boniface said the HBPA already has paid $25,000 this year for a fire in Chicago, so Lloyds must pay for the Marlboro loss.

None of the horses in the Sunday fire was valued at more than the Lloyds maximum of 5,000 per horse.

Inao had a 35-10 record for the Lions in regular season play.

Carolina Club Shows Class With Defense

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP)—North Carolina's Tar Heels, who limited Maryland to 56 yards rushing last Saturday, are two-way defensive pace-setters in the Atlantic Coast Conference this week.

The Tar Heels surrendered the pass lead to Duke when the Terps, though beaten 27-0, passed for 239 yards, but North Carolina still came out of the contest leading the ACC in total defense and rushing defense as well.

Tar Heels Improve

ACC Service Bureau figures released today show the Tar Heels averaging 212.8 yards in total defense and 112.2 in rushing defense. Duke has yielded an average of only 97.8 yards per game passing while North Carolina has given up an average of 100.5.

North Carolina, in its last three games, all of which it won, has given up an average of only 66.7 rushing yards per game and 108 overall. And even though Maryland completed 21 of 33 passes against the Tar Heels last Saturday, setting an ACC completion record for a single game while picking up the 239 aerial yards, the Terps failed to score a point.

Clemson Offense Leader

The team offense show continues the private property of Clemson and Virginia, each with record-breaking averages.

Clemson, idle last Saturday in preparation for this week's Big Thursday game with South Carolina, leads total offense at 385.2 yards per game and rushing offense with 278.5 yards per contest. Virginia is No. 1 in pass offense with an average of 141.2 aerial yards a game.

All three of the leading offensive averages are better than ACC record averages for an entire season.

Despite its passing performance, last week, Maryland ranks fourth in the eight-team conference in pass offense with a 108.2 yard average for five games. The Terps are seventh in rushing offense (125.6 yard average) and sixth in total offense (241.8 yards).

Maryland ranks sixth in total defense, giving up 234 yards per contest. The total is broken down into 189.6 yards rushing and 114.4 yards passing with the Terps rated fifth in each department.

FORT LEONARD WOOD, Mo. (UPI)—New York Yankee infielder Tony Kubek begins a six-month tour with the U. S. Army today. The 23-year-old Kubek's Max suffered a pre-season leg injury this fall and when he returned to practice last week, he suffered a groin injury.

Alco Jayvees Shade Keyser

A 20-yard touchdown run in the first period by Robert Bruce held up as the Allegany High School football Jayvees scored a 6-0 victory over the Keyser reserves yesterday on the winners' field.

The victory was the second for the Little Campers who also defeated Ridgeley while losing to Beall and LaSalle. Keyser and Allegany will meet in a return game next Monday in the West Virginia town.

Keyser outtroughed Alco, 130 yards to 85, but the Campers gained 50 yards on two of four passes while the Little Tornado was unable to complete an aerial. The losers had nine first downs to Allegany's eight.

Pitchers Led In Bat Work By Newcombe

NEW YORK (AP)—Big Don Newcombe, a good hitting pitcher who hasn't done much effective pitching the last couple of seasons, led the major league hurlers in batting with a .361 average in 1958.

Newcombe collected 26 hits in 72 times at bat. He had one double and one home run and drove in nine runs. A left-handed batsman, Newcombe also paced the big league moundsmen in batting with a .359 mark in 1955. His lifetime average for eight seasons in the majors is .270 with 12 homers and 85 runs batted in.

Spahn Second

Warren Spahn of Milwaukee outslugged Newcombe, but finished second in batting with .333. Spahn, whose lifetime hitting mark for 13 campaigns is only .197, had 36 hits in 108 tries the past year. Among his safeties were six doubles, one triple and two homers. He drove in 15 runs to share the major league lead with teammate Lew Burdette.

Spahn has a lifetime total of 21 homers and 136 RBIs. Figures compiled by The Associated Press today also showed that Don Larsen of the New York Yankees topped American League pitchers with a .306 batting average. He had 15 hits, including four homers. Larsen was the only pitcher to collect a pinch-hit homer, tagging Ike Delock of Boston on Aug. 17.

Drysdale Ties Record

Spahn's pitching record was 22-11. Larsen's 9-6 and Newcombe's 7-13 as a member of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Cincinnati Reds.

Don Drysdale of Los Angeles tied a National League record for pitchers by hitting seven homers. He shares it with Newcombe, who reached that total in 1955. The major league mark for one season is nine by Wes Farrell of Cleveland in 1930.

Jack Harshman of Baltimore, a converted first baseman, slammed six homers. He drove in 14 runs, but finished with a batting average of only .185.

Burdette hit the only bases-filled homer among big league pitchers. He also tied a league record by hitting two homers in a game for the second time in his career. Newcombe also shares this mark.

Harvey Haddix of Cincinnati, who led major league moundsmen in batting last year with a .309 average, had only 11 hits in 61 trips for a .180 percentage in 1958.

Johnny Saxton On Comeback Trail

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Johnny Saxton, ex-welterweight king on the comeback trail, was rated even money today against young Denny Moyer of Portland in their scheduled 10-round fight here tonight. Saxton, who defied thigh, Walters, who also stars on defense for the Cadets, won all 16 of his professional fights.

Confidence Top Ingredient In All-Winning Colt Start

BALTIMORE (AP)—Confidence is a strong ingredient in the all-victorious start of the Baltimore Colts in the National Football League this season.

It is the difference between last year's foldups by the Colts in late stages of games and their dominance of the fourth quarters this season.

End Jim Mutscheller put his finger on it in talking about last Sunday's victory over the defending champion Detroit Lions for the second time and fourth Colt triumph.

Last season, the Colts led Detroit 27-3 in the third quarter of their return match and lost.

When Detroit scored in the fourth quarter last Sunday to trail by only 20-14 some people might have felt there was going to be a repeat.

Not the Colts, reports Mutscheller. "When our offensive team got into the huddle, you could just feel the confidence that we were going to score again," said the former Notre Dame end.

The Colts did. They scored three times. "We had not thought of losing," said Art Spinney, offensive guard. The Colts also scored 10 points each against Green Bay and the Chicago Bears in the last quarter and 14 on Detroit in their first meeting.

One touchdown by Chicago is the only other fourth period score against the Colts.

Colts 'Teamed Up' For Redskin Game

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI)—The Baltimore Colts were "teamed up" today for their meeting with the Washington Redskins Sunday following Redskins owner George Preston Marshall's charge that Colt center Buzz Nutter is "a liar."

Marshall dropped his verbal bomb in a fit of anger at the annual Colts-Redskins luncheon here Monday after Nutter jokingly said he didn't receive transportation money from Marshall after he failed in a 1953 Washington tryout. Such payment is required by the league.

Marshall, the guest speaker who hadn't yet taken the rostrum, leaped to his feet, banged his forehead with one hand, then rushed to the microphone, pushing Nutter aside.

"This young gentleman," he boomed, "is a liar."

The festive party air dissipated in a wink and even a quick apology by Nutter, who admitted he was only "riding" Marshall, failed to soothe the Redskins boss.

Marshall delivered his address, but for a while it looked like he

Officiating 'Sad,' Says Kansas Coach

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Coach Woody Hayes of Ohio State, obviously pleased that his "dirty football" charges have brought officials under public scrutiny, had a companion today in Kansas coach Jack Mitchell.

The Jayhawk coach Monday charged the officiating in Saturday's Oklahoma-Kansas game was "pathetic." Last week Hayes blasted the officials for permitting the defense to play "dirty football" while watching the offensive team too closely.

Mitchell said "never in my playing or coaching days have I witnessed such an exhibition." Oklahoma beat Kansas, 43-0.

Hayes, meanwhile, said he thought he was "on the way to getting it straightened out." He said he was "encouraged" by the officiating in the Big Ten last Saturday, with the possible exception of the Indiana-Ohio State game.

During his own game, the fiery Hayes rushed onto the field to protest alleged roughness on the part of the Hoosiers. The officials quickly marched off a 15-yard penalty against Ohio State. Ohio State downed Indiana, 49-8.

Mitchell was backed up in his charged by Big Eight Commissioner Reaves Peters, who said he had heard the officiating was apparently lousy." Peters told Mitchell to give the officials who worked the game a "zero" in his report and they wouldn't be back next year.

Hayes said "officiating last Saturday on the whole was pretty good" with possibly one exception. He didn't single out the exception but it was apparent he meant the Ohio State-Indiana game.

Kramer Plans 'Own Courts' For Australia

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Jack Kramer, miffed by 10 months of bickering with Australian tennis associations, today put into operation plans to stage his pro tennis tours there independently.

The tennis impresario charged that the tennis associations not only are in "unfair things" which hurt him, but also are "not doing their job." Two pro coaches, Sid Gillman and Frank Albert of the San Francisco 49ers, have complained about officiating at Wrigley Field in Chicago the last two weeks.

Officiating also has caused a small tempest in college football's Big Ten. Coach Woody Hayes of the Ohio State stomped out on the field last Saturday to protest a decision to award a game to the home team.

Kramer announced he was investing $22,500 in a portable court and would use stadiums other than those belonging to the tennis associations in Melbourne, Sydney and anywhere else he can reach a fair agreement on rent and tickets.

The pros had been using the huge Kooyung Tennis Stadium in Melbourne and the White City Stadium in Sydney in their matches but he said in Melbourne he was forced to give away as many as 4,700 free tickets out of 11,000 to life association members.

"We are definitely committed to play on our own," Kramer said. "With the investment we are making in equipment the only way we now could compromise would be for them to foot the bill for the added expenses." Kramer said his representatives had arranged to rent the Olympic Velodrome in Melbourne and the E. A. Marks cricket oval at Randwick, near Sydney, for the dates in those areas. He was hopeful tennis associations in other states would be more cooperative but if they also seek huge blocks of free tickets he intended staging independently there also.

Gifford In Hospital, Lost Several Weeks

NEW YORK (UPI)—Frank Gifford, 205-pound all-National League selection the last two years, is in St. Elizabeth's Hospital with torn ligaments in his right knee and will be lost to the New York Giants for two or three weeks. Gifford suffered the injury in Sunday's 23-6 loss to the Chicago Cardinals.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Pete Brennan, signed by the New York Knicks, played AAU basketball in Manila all summer.

Kuharic Cites Officiating As Key To Games' Outcome

WASHINGTON (AP)—Officiating, good or bad, is one of three keys to the outcome of pro football games says Coach Joe Kuharich of the Washington Redskins.

Kuharich's clubs usually are the least penalized in the National Football League.

He emphasized today that he is not quarreling with any of the crews that police NFL games when he says "officiating and penalties are in 'unfair things' which hurt me day and help the next day."

Two pro coaches, Sid Gillman and Frank Albert of the San Francisco 49ers, have complained about officiating at Wrigley Field in Chicago the last two weeks. Officiating also has caused a small tempest in college football's Big Ten. Coach Woody Hayes of the Ohio State stomped out on the field last Saturday to protest a decision to award a game to the home team.

Kuharich skirted both controversies, but said the caliber of officiating is sometimes crucial to winning or losing. Pro teams are so evenly balanced, he said, that "the three most important factors in determining the outcome of a game are fumbles, interceptions and officials' decisions."

For example, "Say a back gets away for 30 or 40 yards and the play is nullified by a clipping penalty. That could turn the tide. Or maybe on a long gain there is a holding violation which the officials miss. You never know."

For three of Kuharich's four seasons as coach the Redskins have been penalized for less yardage than any other NFL team. They're in the same position so far this year.

Steeler Tackle Sleeps Through Loss To Browns

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI)—Pittsburgh Steeler tackle Ernie Stautner was released from a hospital after making his first trip through a physician's error.

Stautner, 33, was put into a deep sleep Sunday shortly before the Steeler game with the Cleveland Browns. Pittsburgh team physician Dr. John Miller said he inadvertently injected Stautner's bruised shoulder with demerol rather than a local anesthetic of novocain to relieve pain.

Stautner became violently ill then lapsed into a "profound sleep" shortly after the injection. During a hurried trip to Cleveland Clinic, oxygen was administered and Stautner regained consciousness upon arrival.

Hospital attendants immediately injected the veteran tackle with a counter-active drug.

Stautner, scheduled to play Sunday through the Steelers' 27-10 defeat at the hands of the Browns.

Stautner said today he was ready to play against the New York Giants Sunday.

Logart Gets Draw In Jamaica Fight

KINGSTON, Jamaica (UPI)—Welterweight contender Isaac Logart of Cuba and Gerald Gray, champion of the West Indies, fought to a 10-round draw Saturday night at Sabina Park. One ring official favored Logart but the other two called the bout a draw.

Sticks With Rangers

NEW YORK (UPI)—Wally Hergesheimer was rewarded by the New York Rangers for his fine play today by being given a permanent contract. The 31-year-old wing was brought up from the Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League on a three-game trial basis last week.

Kelly In Race

YORK, Pa. (UPI)—Jack Kelly, 1957-58 AAU marathon champion, will be in an expected 75-mile field competing in the National AAU 30-kilometer (about 18 and 3/4 miles) championship Nov. 2. Kelly and defending champion Ted Corbitt of the New York Pioneer Club are the favorites.

Tom Robbins Surprises By Medal Victory

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—They laughed when Tom Robbins stepped up to play. That was 31 years ago and Tom was prepared to laugh too.

Surprisingly, he took a left-handed swing at a golf ball and knocked it "some 200 yards and smack in the middle of the fairway," he recalls.

Robbins took up the game fairly seriously after that first devil-may-care effort in Puerto Rico. Nov. 65, retired and living here, he has a deadly eye with his chip shots and a good putter too, as he proved during Monday's qualifying for the seventh annual North-South Seniors Tournament here.

Racking up six birdies, Robbins shot a 3-under-par 35-34-69 over the No. 2 Pinehurst Country Club course to win the medal. Four strokes behind was John W. Roberts of Columbus, Ohio, who had a 38-35-73. The final line-up in the 32-man championship flight was to be determined today, Monday, playing off for the last seven spots.

After that, the first 18-hole championship match play round was to begin. Finals in all flights there are eight other lower-grade flights—are scheduled Saturday. Others who qualified Monday included James Wolcott Brown of Sea Girt, N.J., Southern Seniors champion, 41-36-77; P. J. Farley, Grand Rapids, Mich., Robbins' first-round opponent, with 40-36-76; Jack Brittain Sr., Woodhaven, N.Y., 37-37-74, and Egon F. Quittner, Rydal, Pa., 40-35-75.

Where Is He Now? Former Mile Ace Turns To Ponies

By United Press International
Once the world's greatest miller, Glenn Cunningham thrilled the sports world with his "big kick" on the track though once his doctors told him he might never walk again. As a boy of 8, Glenn was burned severely in a school fire. Physicians despaired for his life for a time and later for his legs but Glenn fought back and by the time he reached the University of Kansas he was on his way to fame. Glenn made the 1932 Olympic team, though he failed to win the 1,500 meters. At one time he held the mile record at 4:06.8. For years he was invincible, particularly on indoor board tracks.

Whatever happened to Glenn Cunningham? He lives on an 840-acre ranch near Cedar Point, Kans., with his large family including three sons and three daughters. He raises a sheldahl, ponies and spends part of the fall and winter on temperance lecture tours.

Suffers Knee Injury

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI)—Mike McCormack, veteran offensive tackle for the Cleveland Browns, suffered a knee injury during Sunday's game with the Pittsburgh Steelers and will be sidelined at least two weeks.

Mont Plans Switches For Auburn Game

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

How secure did one of those fabled Western gunslingers feel with a few notches on his shooting aim? Ask any of the top football teams. Someone is always waiting to gain a "rep" by knocking them off.

This is not a spontaneous thing. A team begins its plotting over the weekend with scouting reports and movies, then goes into the operations stage, with the first practice session.

Let's look in on the practice fields of teams playing some of the nation's top teams this week. At Pittsburgh, where top-ranked Army meets Pitt Saturday, Panther Coach Johnny Michelosen is trying to stop a siege of fumble-backs that has hampered a Pitt attack. He is also sharpening up a passing attack led by Ivan Tonic and Bill Kaliden to exploit a weakness the Cadets showed in beating Virginia last Saturday.

Wisconsin Coach Milt Bruhn, looking toward Ohio State (No. 2) Saturday, expects tackles Dan Lanphear and Jim Heinicke to be the injury list. The first two teams worked only lightly after being downed by Iowa Saturday for their first loss.

The Rice Owls, playing fourth-ranked Texas Saturday night, worked only lightly and watched films of last year's Texas game. Guard Charley Knight, on the injured list, was pronounced available for the game.

Maryland Coach Tommy Mont made wholesale changes in his second and third teams as he was to begin. Finals in all flights there are eight other lower-grade flights—are scheduled Saturday. Others who qualified Monday included James Wolcott Brown of Sea Girt, N.J., Southern Seniors champion, 41-36-77; P. J. Farley, Grand Rapids, Mich., Robbins' first-round opponent, with 40-36-76; Jack Brittain Sr., Woodhaven, N.Y., 37-37-74, and Egon F. Quittner, Rydal, Pa., 40-35-75.

Only Answer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Viscount Runciman had one answer Wednesday for the loss of his British Sloop Scythe to Columbia in the America's Cup yacht races. "It was not a good enough boat."

Lewis Plans No Action On Error In Pitt Game

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia University football coach Art Lewis said Tuesday he planned no action after noting an "official's error" in movies of the Pitt-West Virginia football game last Saturday.

Lewis said "it was a bad break, and it cost us the ball game," him to release the ball. Gobb fell first, Bowles fell on top of him and Rider who was nearby scooped up the ball as he fell.

Pitt won the game 15-8 and Lewis was commenting on a controversial play involving an intercepted pass by Mountaineer end John Bowles. Furfuri said "I just wanted to see for myself what happened and I asked to watch the movies with the coaching staff." He said both he and Lewis agreed that "the score of the game will remain, and nothing can change it."

Mickey Furfuri, Morgantown sports editor, wrote in today's editions that the movies "clearly show that West Virginia halfback Dave Rider had possession of a fumble by end John Bowles after he intercepted a Pitt pass late in the game."

Furfuri said field judge C. L. Harper of Columbia, S. C. made an "honest error" in signaling that Pitt end Art Gobb had recovered the ball. Then he wrote regarding the question of whether Bowles had stepped out of bounds that the end "was an inch away from the line and as he started to run Gobb grabbed his arm causing

Critic "Chickens Out" On Review Of "Dr. Mudd" TV Show

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) — Dear Boss: I really feel TV put me in a squeeze Monday night with "The Case for Dr. Mudd" on CBS-TV's "Desilu Playhouse."

It was all about this Maryland doctor named Sam Mudd who helped out John Wilkes Booth after Booth had shot Lincoln and how the North put Mudd in jail and really treated him bad.

Now, I figure it like this: If I say the show was bad, the whole

South will be mad at me. If I say the show was good, the whole North will be mad at me. And I don't say anything at all, Des and Lucy — or is it Desy and Luci! — will be mad at me.

Well, I'll chicken out and split it this way:

The good side: Lew Ayres and Mary Anderson as Dr. and Mrs. Mudd were quite satisfactory and the acting of James Westerfield as Mudd's lawyer was better than satisfactory. Some of the scenes — such as the one in which Mudd was tried and the law flouted — were mildly gripping.

The bad side: The whole production had the skimpy air of a cheap movie, a kind of let's get on with it we've got a lot of ground to cover, atmosphere. Also Mudd, as a person, was never explored satisfactorily — we learned nothing, for example, about Mudd, the proprietor of 500 acres who had once owned 11 slaves.

Okay, that's as far as I'll go. North and South, you now can fight it out on your own.

Monday night, I also watched NBC-TV's "Restless Gun," "Wells Fargo," and "Peter Gunn" and CBS-TV's "Ann Southern Show." The first was about a wild youngster, the second about some wild Indians, the third about some wild gangsters and the fourth — well most situation comedies it wasn't about anything — but it had a wildly hysterical sound track.

Their merits were varied, but what was most important about all four was their unashamed addiction to formula. It's sad but true of almost all mass entertainment — pop music, movies, TV shows, popular fiction — that it relies on an unrelenting repetition of the same recipes.

Turning on the radio or TV, you're never asked to think or, Nov. 9, also on tap for "Omni-bus" feel the way you might be, but Peter Ustinov as star of say, by other contemporary offerings like a quartet by Bartok, a canvas by Pollock or a play by Brecht or Anouilh.

I suppose many viewers derive some sort of satisfaction from the constant repetition of the familiar, but it seems to me a condition both deadening and dolorous.

The Channel Swim: CBS-TV will present a one-hour special show starring Phil Silvers on Jan. 23. CBS-TV's "Jack Benny Show" on Nov. 2 will feature the wives of Bob Hope, Dean Martin, Ray Milland, and David Niven. Esther Williams will star in a show devoted to the atomic submarine on NBC-TV's "Omni-bus" Nov. 9. Also on tap for "Omni-bus" Peter Ustinov as star of say, by other contemporary offer-

Queen Doubleton Poses Problem

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
The play of today's hand starts out simply enough. West opens the king of diamonds and continues with the queen. East over-takes and plays a third diamond which South ruffs.

South takes two rounds of trumps, plays the ace of hearts and ruffs his small heart in dummy.

South's next play is a low club and if East plays the deuce, South can make the hand. All he has to do is to go right up with the ace of clubs and lead the three spot.

If West plays the king he will drop his partner's queen, and if he plays the ten East will win with the queen and have to lead a red card. This lets South make the hand since he will be able to discard his jack of clubs and ruff in dummy.

When Jerry Lewis of Dallas held the East hand in the recent Ardmore tournament the play went exactly as shown up to the first club play. Jerry, who has been playing tournament bridge for as long as I can remember, has been on both ends of enough plays of this type to recognize one when it rears its ugly head. He simply played his queen of clubs and left South no way to avoid the loss of two club tricks and his contract.

Paul Butler Lashes Out At GOP Forces

By United Press International
Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell and Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) were the next "name" out-of-state speakers scheduled to visit West Virginia in support of Democratic and Republican candidates in the fall election campaign.

Both will make appearances in the state Wednesday.

Monday night Democratic national chairman Paul Butler told a Follansbee Democratic rally that if Vice President Nixon had put as much effort into getting decent anti-recession bills passed in Congress as he is putting into his "smug announcements" that the recession is over "we would all be better off."

Butler said Nixon's statements were being financed by "millionaire bankers of the GOP."

Butler also said that if President Eisenhower "had put as much effort into getting money for those in need, as he puts into raising funds for the Republican war chest" there might not be a recession.

The chairman also attacked Eisenhower and Nixon for alleged failure to provide leadership on issues like unemployment compensation, a redeveloping, an expanding economy and community facilities.

Two Men Held In Connection With Killing

BALTIMORE (AP) — Police investigating the unsolved 1954 murder of 14-year-old Caroline Wasilewski picked up two men today and said a third arrest was imminent.

The bobby-soxer was beaten to death in November, 1954.

Her body, with skull fractured and jaw broken, was found on railroad tracks in North Baltimore but police believe she was murdered in Southwest Baltimore and the body then dumped on the tracks.

Police were reluctant to discuss today's arrests. Capt. Frank Battaglia said "we don't want to be too optimistic but it definitely has possibilities."

The two young men were seized early today in southwest Baltimore. Police said both had been questioned previously in the case. Both have criminal records. One is married.

It was understood the arrests came after several weeks of stepped-up investigation.
